I have worked as a Buyer, Supply Planner for the retail business for 7 years. During this time, I worked a lot with IT, to fight against various bad systems. I felt that I was good at logical thinking and then I wanted to change my job / career from logistics to IT area which I am much more interested in.

I feel programing and app development is so funny and they make me relax and feel very happy with!

As an open person, I respect different cultures and always curious about new things and new techniques!

I have really good leaning ability and can learn things very fast.

Hope that I can contribute with my passion, knowledge, experience and at the same time learn more about developing in your company.
